A QUACK DOCTOR'S CAREER. -- Dr. W. H. M. Howard, of Bradford, Vermont, who has so long managed to clude justice has at length met his reward, he having been sentenced to two year's imprisonment in the State prison at Windsor, on Saturday last. Howard, it will be remembered, was convict ed some months since at Chelsea. He appealed to the Superior Court, but it refused him a new trial. His real name is Drew, and though he asserts himself an Englishman, is a native of Limerick, Ireland. On establishing himself at Thetford, Vermont, a few years since, he gave out that he was a sur geon in the British army, and that he had attended Queen Victoria by special request, but, as some knowing ones discovered that he could not speak the Queen's English, and could neither read nor write, that story went for nothing. He set up a dashing team, and soon got, by sheer brass, the name of a "great doctor." But an action for mal-practice shook faith in him, and he had to pay $1. 200 damages. While in full blast he was recognised at Bradford as a man who, under the name of Houghton, had, by reason of false pretences, swindled the Burlington Bank out of more than a thousand dollars. Records, will expose for sale at Public Auction, in This he paid to escape punishment. While at Bradford he attended a man who died, and whose widow he married, taking possession of all her propery which he got hold of .-She died last summer, broken hearted. He was next arrested on the charge for which he has been convicted, and for two years at ton Traveller. TRUTH.-Many years ago, in one of the counties of East Virginia, a suit for a large amount was brought by a merchant against a planter. The payment of the claim was re-sisted on the ground that a large portion of it was fraudulent. The trial produced great excitement throughout the country. Both parties were well known, and wealthy .-Both had extensive family connections, and a large circle of friends who became warmly interested in the result. The only reliable witness that the plaintiff could bring forward to establish the claim, was a young clerk, only sixteen years of age, who was not only dependeat upon the merchant for his support but had been the frequent recipient of his kindness. The defendant and his friends beginning at a point 66 feet to the westward of feared that his youth, his dependence, and the Royal street, and running thence northwardly, kindness for which he was indebted to his employer, would induce him to swear to the account. Contrary to all expectation, however, the youth gave his testimony in such a clear, impartial and straight-forward manner as not only to establish the fraudulent nature quare; thence westwardly, and binding on said of the account, but to convict his employer of alley 62 feet, more or less, to the east line of Lot habitual villainy beyound the hope of denial or excuse. Judge John Minor, in his charge, spoke in the most complimentary manner of the honesty, the firmness and ability of the young witness, and predicted for him an honadjoining on the east, for the new building lately erected on the eastern portion of the lot. On this lot stands the large, well-built, and substantial structure, known as the "OLD ALEXAN-" that county. That boy was Benj. Botts, the
